The finest cut possible with a straight line shot on both sides of the ball. The left hand RED ball creates a 'Foul Snooker'

Although the YELLOW ball can be seen clearly the RED ball would be contacted before the finest cut to the YELLOW ball could be achieved. A 'Foul Snooker' would be awarded.

This is NOT a 'Foul Snooker'. The player cannot be snookered by a ball of his own colour.

In this instance a 'Foul Snooker' is given. The RED ball is obstructing the path to the cushion.

The cushion is ignored for the purpose of defining a 'Foul Snooker'. NO 'Foul Snooker' could be granted.

The closer the CUE ball is, the more narrow the finest possible cuts become. BLACK ball would constitute a 'Foul Snooker'.

The jaw of the pocket (arrowed) is preventing the CUE ball from being played to the finest cut on the cushion side of the YELLOW ball. Following a foul this would be termed as a 'Foul Jaw Snooker'.

The finest cut possible with a straight line shot on both sides of the ball. The left hand RED ball creates a 'Foul Snooker'

NOTE: All situations are shown with the YELLOW balls being the fouled players colour.
